Libby

Now known as BISS GCH Embrace's Sprint to the Finish at Skyfyre, Libby lived up to her name finishing in sprinting form, with 3 majors, 2 being specialty wins. She completed her Grand Championship in 5 shows just like her Dam, with a Best in Specialty win at the Schipperke Club of Central Arizona Specialty in November. As her breeders we are thrilled! Not only for Libby's accomplishments, but also for her owners Leisl and Del who have piloted her to these wins. We couldn't have asked for a better team to work with. Thank you for your continued friendships!

Jaime Stanchina & Emma Stanchina

Desi

Desi, BISS MRBIS BISOH Skyfyre's Holiday in Havana CGC, can now add Best in Specialty Show to his long list of titles. He has had a fantastic show career in just four short years. He has been awarded multiple RBIS and multiple BISOH and now BISS. As our first "bred by" we couldn't be prouder. The future is looking bright for Desi.

This article is from the Summer 2005 issue of the Bulletin. It summarizes an owner's discovery and journey with her Schip who was diagnosed with MPSIIIB. This article has been transcribed, some errors may be present.

Trooper Update- Nancy Baldree

It was summer of 2003 when I get a very sad letter from my breeder, after owning a new schipperke puppy for about 5 months, to inform me of a fatal, genetic, neurological disease (MPSIII-b) newly found in this breed just a few short months earlier. It was a heart wrenching letter to state that my puppy, trooper, could be carrying the gene for the disease. I followed her instructions on what to do to determine if trooper was normal, a carrier, or an affected dog. I acted immediately with the help of my veterinarian and sent his blood work to the University of Pennsylvania.

When the phone rang early one evening six days after blood was sent to the university I checked with the caller ID and dread hit me instantly. It was Dr. Ellinwood from the university. I recognized his name from a video I had seen regarding the disease my vet had loaned me. I knew this wasn't going to be good news. I was told that my darling little Schipperke pup was an affected dog. He informed me that trooper would seem normal but deterioration would be inevitable by age 2. He also wanted to let trooper go to be studied at the university with a colony of affected Schipperkes. I told Dr. Ellinwood that my dog had a daily job of doing 8 hours of therapy work five days a week and politely refused. What an emotional couple of weeks that was in the summer of 2003.

I found myself in denial that anything was wrong with my dog would sit and stare for long periods of time to see if there were any changes in him. He was an active therapy dog in a busy Medical Center. He loved going to work period I had a hard time convincing myself that were reality of his future. I prayed for a miracle. When he was approximately a year old his coat started changing. It wasn't the shiny black typically scene and healthy skips. His coat became a reddish Gray and always blowing his coat, Grey fur coming out with his daily grooming. He also started becoming more irritable with other schips in the house. He was alpha but becoming intolerable of even their existence. My other three Schips would avoid him at all costs. He continued to have an excellent temperament with people, especially with patients at the center.

At age 2, trooper was not able to maneuver on the couch. I placed step stools in front of the furniture and bought a ramp for the bed. His gait was becoming more awkward. His hind legs would move in an erratic fashion. When he ran his hind legs would fly in the air away from his body a very unusual and distressing sight to see. His irritability with my other dogs continued and with any other dog he would encounter. I was contacted by a fellow schip friend who knew of a dog being treated with herbals for this disease. This vet and schip were in New York. I obtained information on the vet and had telephone conversations with him. My current vet would not consider participating with Chinese medicine. I searched for a vet who would help me in obtaining these herbs as the vet in New York had one stipulation and was that he would only prescribe through another vet. I found a wonderful vet about 30 miles from home who practiced holistic care in Chinese herbs. I started trooper on the herbs March 2004. Trooper was kept on these herbs for a year when I made the decision to take him off as he continued as he continued to deteriorate regardless. He continues to keep his holistic vet on the Eastern Shore of Maryland.

Trooper will celebrate his third birthday on November 14th, 2005. He is unable to run but trots quite well. He knows he can't climb stairs anymore and waits patiently for help going up stairs to bed. His weight has declined to 7 lbs. He has retired from therapy work but will occasionally visit a hospital in Baltimore City. His love for impaired adults is still evident. He is an incredibly smart Schipperke whose life may be shortened by a genetic defect, But he's lived and taught me more than most human beings.

The Schipperke

THE TALE OF THE TAIL

BY JO PATRICK

JUDGE, BREEDER/HANDLER, FROM THE FIRST POINT
TO WINNING BOB AT OUR NATIONAL SPECIALTY

(Originally printed in the November 2011 issue of SHOWSIGHT magazine.)

Before I begin my view on the AKC Schipperke standard, I find it important to inform you that my life prior to dogs was teaching young children with learning disabilities. All were bright and had a true willingness to learn; they just learned differently. Thus, it was my duty as their teacher to present one subject in five or six different ways. Anything that worked was a success. This was in the early 1960s and the beginning of the change from standardized teaching to one that was more individualistic in nature.

I began my odyssey with AKC-registered dogs in 1972 with the purchase of two Shetland Sheepdogs. Fortunately, I'd purchased my Shelties from a reputable breeder, which began my introduction to showing dogs. I'd viewed my first dog show in 1969 while living in Japan with my husband, after his squadron's tour in Vietnam was finished.

While I loved the sweet temperament and amenable behavior of the Shetland Sheepdogs, I found that I was drawn to a temperament more independent in nature. So, in 1980, I obtained my first Schipperke, and a few years later, my first Great Pyrenees; the two breeds that have held me captive for the past 39 years. While different in looks, both breeds are very much alike in their determination, independent nature, and complete loyalty.

I will be using various "verbally visual" references in this interpretation, providing, hopefully, a successful mentoring experience of the Schipperke.

I am totally devoted to and smitten with the Schipperke! Now, on to the important part—my breed.

THE TALE OF THE TAIL*

"The small, fox-like Schipperke is known for its mischievous expression and distinctive black coat, which stands off from the body and is harsh to the touch. This enthusiastic, joyful, and sometimes willful dog has a thickset, cobby body, and lacks a tail. Although historically a watchdog and vermin hunter, today this ageless breed enjoys competing in conformation, agility and a variety of other dog sports, often well into its teens."

The verbiage used to describe all standards is significant. The wording used in the Schipperke standard is essential. Those words, whether nouns, adjectives, verbs or adverbs, bring to us an image of our breed; the Schipperke. To look at and capture that visual image, we must be able "to perceive as a picture in the mind, rather than as an abstract idea."

When presented with a new Standard and the learning process begins, our mind views the entire physical presence. As future judges, we see the entire dog. We have this picture captured and stored away to be utilized when followed by the written language.

The standard for the Schipperke begins with General Appearance:

"The Schipperke is an agile, active watchdog and hunter of vermin. In appearance he is a small, thickset, cobby, black, tailless dog, with a fox-like face. The dog is square in profile and possesses a distinctive coat, which includes a stand-out ruff, cape and culottes. All of these create a unique silhouette, appearing to slope from shoulders to croup. Males are decidedly masculine without coarseness. Bitches are decidedly feminine without overrefinement. Any deviation from the ideal described in the standard should be penalized to the extent of the deviation. Faults common to all breeds are as undesirable in the Schipperke as in any other breed, even though such faults may not be specifically mentioned in the standard."

Honestly, this one paragraph says it all. Let's look at the descriptive words used in the very first sentence to portray this one small dog:

Agile, active, watchdog, hunter, small, thickset, cobby, black, tailless, fox-like.

It then continues with:

Square, distinctive coat, stand-out, ruff, cape, culottes, unique silhouette.

Some of these words are derived from the French language, so further exploration is needed to conclude the desired physical picture. Off to the dictionary:

Ruff – A separate collar of starched pleated linen or lace worn by men and women in the 16th and 17th centuries; a growth of long, colorful or bushy hair or feathers on the neck of a bird or other animal.”

Cape – Cloak, mantle, poncho, wrap, shawl or robe.

Culottes – A pair of women's knee-length shorts, cut to resemble a skirt.

Silhouette – An outline, shape, shadow, profile. An outline of something filled in with black or a dark color on a light background, especially when done as a... work of art.

Unique – Exclusive, exceptional, distinctive, matchless, irreplaceable, rare.

When the word unique is added to silhouette, something magical occurs, giving strength to the desired image. Visualize the following:

Exclusive shape, exceptional profile, distinctive shadow, matchless outline, rare work of art and irreplaceable outline.

The physical picture created becomes remarkable when these two words are placed together. There is no quarter for any other picture. When the Schipperke is viewed as a silhouette, it is immediately identified as a “Schipperke.” Other breeds that can be identified by its silhouette alone are the Pembroke Welsh Corgi and the Old English Sheepdog. (Neither has a tail.) Other words that can be utilized for the word “unique” when describing “silhouette” are “exclusive, one of a kind, exceptionally distinctive, irreplaceable and rare.” The antonym of unique is “common.” I certainly would never describe a Schipperke seen in silhouette form as common.

Just by reading the “general appearance” we know what this dog is not. He is not long in body or any color other than black. He doesn't have a hound-like expression and he does not have a tail. Since the 1500s, the Schipperke has never been visualized as having a tail. The lack of a tail accentuates the unique silhouette.

At the tail end of the paragraph identified as “general appearance,” the term “fault” is mentioned. The dictionary and thesaurus have been utilized for those words found in the “general appearance” section. If used as a noun, the definition would be:

Fault – Error, mistake, blunder, blemish, imperfection, defect, omission, flaw, shortcoming or deficiency. The antonym is strength.

In its Breed Standard, the Schipperke is described as a small, thickset, cobby, black, “tailless” dog. There is a very small group of breeders who feel the presence of tails is merely a fault. However, when being exhibited, the appearance of a tail totally destroys the silhouette. Let's explore this word “fault.” Below are examples gathered by looking in the dictionary. The choices are:

Liability, error, mistake, blunder, blemish, imperfection, defect, and flaw.

AKC Rep – Why did you choose to give that tailed Schipperke the points?

Judges Responses –

I view the tail on a Schipperke as only a fault.

I view the tail on a Schipperke as a defect.

I view the tail on a Schipperke as just a flaw.

I view the tail on a Schipperke as a blunder.

I view the tail on a Schipperke as an imperfection.

I view the tail on a Schipperke as a mistake. (And that is what it is!)

Would anyone use any of the other words when answering that question? The word “fault” is easily used without thought. The standard neither mentions nor describes a tail. It is acknowledged only as being “docked.” “No tail is visually discernible.”

Other descriptive words found in the Breed Standard under “General Appearance” are small, thickset, cobby, black, tailless dog, with a fox-like face. He is small, but he does not give the impression of being toy-like. Thickset refers to having substance. Cobby refers to being as tall as he is long.

INTRODUCING

SEA LA VIE

SCHIPPERKES

BUILDING ON A SOLID FOUNDATION

"The Schipperke is an agile, active watchdog and hunter of vermin. In appearance he is a small, thickset, cobby, black, tailless dog, with a fox-like face. The dog is square in profile and possesses a distinctive coat, which includes a stand-out ruff, cape and culottes. All of these create a unique silhouette, appearing to slope from shoulders to croup."

Thank you Krista Nuovo-Roe for your friendship, mentoring, and entrusting our home with these four beautiful bitches. We owe a debt of gratitude and future success for your hard work over the decades.
